GOODBYE FOR NOW

The present production, Dagmar in "Personal Appearance," marks the close of the twenty-fourth season at the Ivoryton Playhouse. I would like to take this opportunity to thank those who have contributed in making this summer one of the most successful in my memory. It has certainly been exciting for us at the Playhouse and from your response we are sure that its been exciting and fun for you too. We feel that once again we have brought you the very finest theatrical productions and added to the reputation we have been building for twenty-four years as Connecticut's Foremost summer theatre.

As I reminisce over the past summer I feel that we have presented our audiences with the nation's top talent in a brilliant array of plays. We have brought you tradition in the theatre, and we have brought you new and inspired stars, we have brought you Shaw, F. Hugh Herbert, and plays we believed in as solid entertainment. Such stars as Ethel

Waters, Marlon Brando, Ezio Pinza, Carol Channing, Billie Burke plus — casts of well known and experienced Broadway players, plays that rest on their own merits, plus excellent sets and production know how all contribute to what we proudly refer to as an IVORY-TON PRODUCTION. We are only successful if we have brought you pleasure.

I would like to thank my staff, stage crew, and apprentices for working so hard and so well to contribute to this most successful season. I would also like to thank you, our audience, for your enthusiastic support and continued patronage that have helped make this, our twenty-fourth season at Ivoryton so memorable.

Next year we will be celebrating our twenty-fifth season at the Playhouse. Plans are already in the making for a gala summer with the finest talent in the nation. We know that it will be a banner year. Until next summer—

Sincerely,

MILTON STIEFEL
